

What is linked list? How it is different from array?

Diff b/w Array and Linked list :-

An Array is a collection of elements of a similar data type. A linked list is a collection of objects known as a node where node consists of two parts, i.e., data and address. Array elements store in a contiguous memory location. Linked list elements can be stored anywhere in the memory or randomly stored.